Air Force Reserve Command: Proud Partner in the Total Force

February 5, 2005

Back in the saddle

Lt. Gen. John A. Bradley, chief of the Air Force Reserve and commander Air Force Reserve Command, gives a 'pull chaulks' hand-signal as he readies to taxi out on a 301st Fighter Wing hometown-built F-16 Fighting Falcon. General Bradley came to the Naval Air Station Fort Worth Joint Reserve Base to officiate over Tenth Air Force's change of command ceremony Jan. 20. See related story on page 4. (Photo by Tech. Sgt. Maintenance proves proficiency

By Tech. Sgt. Stephen Bailey
Public Affairs

The 301st Maintenance Squadron shines again as one of the best in the Air Force Reserve by capturing the USAF Maintenance Effectiveness Award Oct. 2003 to Sept. 2004.

Noted for their exceptional performance and accomplishment record, the 301st MXS not only exceeded wing goals but set a standard for many units to aim toward.

"This is a credit to everyone involved—all the hard work done, each and every day has definitely paid huge dividends," said Lt. Col. June Groff, 301st MXS commander.

"I couldn't be more proud of the men and women who give 100 percent of their efforts to make sure we are the best."

The award listed many notable accomplishments including the highest F-16 fully mission capable rate for an unprecedented 12 consecutive months—consistently exceeding standards for AFRC and Air Combat Command. Also noted was their Operation Noble Eagle and presidential combat air patrol commitments; as well as leading AFRC in systems upgrades, increased systems capabilities, and logistical support.

Another award aspect was showcased during the 2004 Operational Readiness Inspection. The squadron achieved a 98.8 sortie effectiveness rate with inspectors noting 301st MXS as, 'Best overall maintenance unit seen.'

"We are a top-notch, combat oriented organization," said Capt. April Schroeder, 301st Maintenance Group executive officer. "Our folks have worked together to become a highly effective and cohesive unit dedicated in achieving results and in preparing themselves to accomplish the multi-role maintenance needs required by wing officials. We stand prepared to face the challenges of tomorrow."

NEWS BRIEFS

April UTA date change

The 301 Fighter Wing commander approved changing the April UTA due to a scheduling conflict with the annual Air Show.

'A' UTA 16-17 April

'B' UTA 9-10 April

Please note the primary UTA will be after the alternate UTA.

OPM approves tsunami relief action

301st Fighter Wing commander has given 301st members special authorization to use their government computers to make a one-time donation helping the devastated earthquake and tsunami victims in South Asia.

Contributors may visit www.usaid.gov, provided by the U.S. Agency for International Development, to view a list of several relief groups and accompanying instructions on the various ways to send a monetary gift.

Carter blood critical

The 701st Medical Squadron is sponsoring a blood drive with Carter Blood Bank Feb. 5, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the base exchange parking lot.

Carter is at a "critical" in the blood supply status. We'd like at least 48 volunteers; scheduled appointments are appreciated; walk-ins also welcome. Each donor will get a t-shirt. Call Master Sgt. Wioleta Seifert at 817.782.7785 for more details.

Fitness isn't just mind over matter

With the start of this New Year, we probably all have similar plans and directions for our lives. I hope fitness will play a big role in how we structure our schedules.

Last year the Air Force's new physical assessment program was introduced. The standards changed to refocus on the Air Force personnel's overall health. In so doing, we are trying to move from a 'fatness' to a 'fitness' culture.

The old body fat calculations and formulas were subject to errors and not necessarily relevant to overall health. However, the new abdominal fat measurements (waist circumference) are highly correlated with the risk for heart and other related diseases which are the number one cause of premature death and disability today.

Aerobic fitness, 1.5 mile run, is the single best cardiovascular risk predictor. The muscular fitness guidelines and the standards by age and sex were derived from the Cooper Research Institute and are widely accepted as an excellent measure of muscular endurance.

Our first assessment run set the base line for each of us. From this base line, we add the needed activity to increase our endurance and make us more physically fit to do the job we have all been hired to do in the Air Force Reserve.

Granted AFRC has an older population than the active duty forces as a whole; however, we must still deploy and maintain the same strenuous pace as they do.

If you scored in the minimal or poor range (<70), you will retake the assessment within a six-month period. Hopefully, your diet and exercise program will make you successful next time.

According to AFI 10-248 AFRC SUP1, fitness program guidance, administrative action may be initiated by your commander if your <70 score doesn't show improvement for a period of greater than 12 months.

Another issue is the 301st Fighter Wing Suicide and Violence Awareness program. Maj. Lee Bradshaw, 701st Medical Squadron, is the program's wing Point of Contact. He's working closely with Maj. Maritza Milan, 301st Aeromedical Squadron, to ensure the necessary annual briefings are presented to the entire wing.

Letters were sent out this month to each squadron commander and first sergeant detailing the program along with a request for an appointed POC. Maj. Bradshaw and Milan will be conducting your classes or will instruct your unit monitors on conducting those classes.

Please help us disseminate this vital information throughout the ranks. The information derived from these classes will

Colonel Kathy S. Meisetschleager
701st Medical Squadron
Commander

be valuable in the workplace as well as proving invaluable within our households and with our families and friends.

My last point is the blood drive the 701st MDS is sponsoring this month. Our local blood supply has dropped dangerously low and donor requests are routinely made when emergencies or accidents occur.

I hope all is well back home at the 301st. I am sending a picture of me from our combat dining-in we had out here.

We have been working hard and sometimes long hours depending on the mission, because without transportation the wing would stop.

I am also taking college courses and will have finished 15 semester hours by the time we come home in March 2005.

New Tenth AF commander reigns as traditional reservist

By Master Sgt. Bill Goben
10AF Public Affairs

Major General Allan R. Poulin assumed command of Tenth Air Force during a change of command ceremony here Jan. 20.

Lieutenant General John A. Bradley, chief of the Air Force Reserve and commander of Air Force Reserve Command, officiated the ceremony. General Poulin replaced Maj. Gen. David E. Tanzi, who became the vice commander of AFRC Jan 21.

"General Poulin is very well qualified for this job because he has been exposed to the width and breath of our program and he understands it well," said General Bradley.

Before this assignment, General Poulin was the mobilization assistant to the commander, Headquarters Air Combat Command, Langley AFB, Va., from March 2000 to January 2005.

Other assignments include:

Mobilization assistant to the commander, U.S. Air Forces Europe, Ramstein Air Base, Germany, from December 1997 to February 2000.

Mobilization assistant to the commander, 12th Air Force and commander, U.S. Southern Command Air Forces, Davis-Monthan, Air Force Base, Ariz., from January 1996 to December 1997.

Vice commander, 482nd Fighter Wing, Homestead Air Reserve Base, Fla., from August 1993 to January 1996.

Commander, operations support squadron, 482nd Fighter Wing, Homestead AFB, Fla., from October 1989 to August 1993.

Commander, 93rd Tactical Fighter Squadron, Homestead AFB, Fla., from September 1986 to October 1989.

General Poulin entered the Air Force in 1970 after receiving his commission from the University of North Carolina's Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps program. He earned his wings in 1971 as an outstanding graduate during pilot training. General Poulin is a command pilot with more than 4,500 flying hours in the F-4 Phantom and the F-16 Fighting Falcon. He is an outstanding graduate, from the U.S. Air Force Fighter Weapons School and has 450 combat hours in Southeast Asia.

As the commander of Tenth Air Force, General Poulin's command includes all AFRC fighter, bomber, rescue, airborne warning and control, special operations, flying training, combat air operations battle staff, and space units which, when mobilized, are gained by Air Combat Command, Air Force Special Operations Command, Air Education and Training Command, Pacific Air Forces, Air Force Space Command, and Air Force Materiel Command.

The mission of Tenth Air Force is to exercise command supervision of its assigned Reserve units to ensure they maintain the highest combat capability to augment active forces in support of national objectives.

Flu vaccine use expanded

WASHINGTON (AFPN)—As part of national efforts to protect more people against the flu, the Defense Department's top health official authorized the use of military flu vaccine previously held in reserve Jan. 14.

Dr. William Winkenwerder Jr. signed a memorandum directing the expanded use of stored flu shot serum for servicemembers and other eligible recipients such as family members and military retirees. This policy change allows the services to use flu shots for non-high risk persons, including active-duty, while continuing their aggressive efforts to get high-risk beneficiaries vaccinated.

Scholarships available for reservists' children

By Adam Austin
Defense Commissary Agency

FORT LEE, Va.—There's still time to submit an application to the Scholarships for Military Children program. The deadline for the $1,500 scholarships is Feb. 16 and all applications must be delivered to the commissary by the close of business that day. At least one scholarship will be awarded at every commissary location with qualified applicants.

The application can be downloaded through a link on the front page of <http://www.commissaries.com> or downloaded directly from <http://www.militaryscholar.org> and filled out by hand or on the computer. Copies of the application are also available at commissaries worldwide.

DeCA program liaison Edna Hoogewind stresses that students should put emphasis on writing the essay portion of the application. "In past years the essay has been a key factor in deciding among the many outstanding applicants," said Hoogewind. This year's topic is "How has the heightened awareness of terrorism impacted your life?"

Students who are not hand-delivering applications are advised to use a delivery method that supplies a return receipt. Applicants may visit <http://www.militaryscholar.org> and click on the "Verification of Receipt" section. Scholarship managers will respond to "Verification of Receipt" e-mails until June 15.

Chaplain's Corner

Our Father knows best

By Chaplain (Capt.) Nate Powell
301st Fighter Wing Chaplain's Team

Would you like to marry someone your parents chose for you? Probably not. However, in many countries arranged marriages are normal. This doesn't make sense to most Americans. We like to make our own decisions. Even if someone else knows what's best for us; we would rather do things our own way—even if our way is wrong. It's all about our freedom to choose!

A western reporter was surprised at the custom of arranged marriages. He questioned how a woman could ever marry a person her father picked. A young woman, who may one day have her wedding arranged by her father, replied her father loved her and knew her better than she knew herself. All her life, her father had provided her the very best. She was convinced her father would never do anything to harm her and would make the best choice. She had the right to reject his choice, but doubted she ever would.

Are we willing to trust God as much as some small children trust their parents? Even after they have already been told no, ever noticed how a child comes back a few minutes later? Why? You come through for them; so in their mind, why should this time be any different? Besides, if they were promised something, they are not going to let you forget. They will remind you repeatedly until you come through! Likewise, if we are willing to have that kind of faith in God, and completely surrender ourselves to Him, we can have 100% assurance God will provide our every need.

Life is one big classroom: full of trials and tribulations; good times and bad; test and pop quizzes; and many lessons to be learned. Just when you thought you had life figured out, it throws you a curve ball.

The good news is, it's not up to us to figure out life. That's our heavenly Father's job. All we have to do is trust Him with all our heart and not lean on our own understanding.

God will bless us to have everything He intended for us; so we can be everything He intended us to be; so we can do everything He intended us to do. God's way is the best way because our heavenly Father knows what's best for us!

Advanced distributed learning and career enhancement exams scheduled

Air Force Institute Advance Distributed Learning end of course testing will be held on the following dates in Bldg. 1654, room 159: Sat., Feb. 5 at noon; Sun., Feb. 6 at 9 a.m.; Sat. Feb. 19 at noon and for all Thursdays in Feb., testing is at 9 a.m.

NOTE: Examinees must report on time with their military identification cards.*

*Note: Examinees must schedule their mandatory testing through their squadron Training Manager. Examinees in voluntary courses may contact the education office directly to schedule an appointment. Seating is limited to 20 examinees in each testing session.

Reminder: Our limited manpower does not allow us to conduct testing sessions outside our regular schedule. While some situations are unpredictable and clearly an emergency, your expiration date or pending promotion board is not considered an emergency. Timely completion is the examinee's responsibility.

Members enrolled in voluntary PME courses should make note of their expiration date, the lack of testing on the dates identified and plan their completion schedule accordingly. Supervisors must ensure members enrolled in mandatory courses have ample opportunity to test on regularly scheduled dates. Contact Titus Andrews at 817.782.6979/6977 for appointments.

abuse. The drug, commonly called “andro,” is used by bodybuilders to help build mass, said Col. (Dr.) Vincent F. Carr, the Air Force’s chief consultant for internal medicine services.

Use, possession, or distribution of androstenedione after Jan. 20 will be a violation of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Carter Blood Bank will have their mobile unit in the parking lot of the Base Exchange Feb. 5 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Please, if you can donate, it only takes about 30 minutes to give the gift that may save a life.
